

The Power of Attraction in Imam Ali (A.S.)

Reflections on Ayatullah Murtadha Mutahhari's
Polarization Around the Character of Imam 'Ali

Seyed Mohammad Abuzar Hashemi

2026-08-19

The Power of Attraction in Imam Ali (A.S.)

The Power of Attraction in Imam Ali (A.S.)

Reflections on Ayatullah Murtadha Mutahhari's
Polarization Around the Character of Imam 'Ali

Seyed Mohammad Abuzar Hashemi

Last Time — The Law That Governs Everything

“Not a single atom of the world of existence is outside the governance of general attraction.”

— Mutahhari

- Every atom obeys attraction — ancients only saw particular cases (magnet–iron)
- No two people are close without a hidden “why” — resemblance or opposition
- Four kinds of people: rock · hypocrite · thorn · both
- 'Ali: one man, two powers — unmatched attraction and repulsion

Example — Rumi’s raven and stork: A wise man discovers the secret bond between two unlike birds — both are lame in one leg.

2026-08-19

The Power of Attraction in Imam Ali (A.S.)

└─Recap

└─Last Time — The Law That Governs Everything

Someone remind the room: what were the four types of people, and which one did 'Ali belong to?

Last Time — The Law That Governs Everything

“Not a single atom of the world of existence is outside the governance of general attraction.”

— Mutahhari

- Every atom obeys attraction — ancients only saw particular cases (magnet–iron)
- No two people are close without a hidden “why” — resemblance or opposition
- Four kinds of people: rock · hypocrite · thorn · both
- 'Ali: one man, two powers — unmatched attraction and repulsion

Example — Rumi’s raven and stork: A wise man discovers the secret bond between two unlike birds — both are lame in one leg.

The Four Kinds of People — A Quadrant

	Repels: No	Repels: Yes
Attracts: No	The Rock hollow, vacuous	The Thorn repels all, draws none
Attracts: Yes	The Hypocrite "love only" – no real conviction	Real Conviction lives by truth — 'Ali

Both powers strong $\neq$ virtue

*Bottom-right also holds Genghis Khan, Hajjaj, Mu'awiyah — they too attracted and repelled strongly.
What matters is not that both powers exist, but who is drawn in and who is driven away.*

2026-08-19

The Power of Attraction in Imam Ali (A.S.)

Recap

The Four Kinds of People — A Quadrant

The Four Kinds of People — A Quadrant

	Repels: No	Repels: Yes
Attracts: No	The Rock hollow, vacuous	The Thorn repels all, draws none
Attracts: Yes	The Hypocrite "love only" – no real conviction	Real Conviction lives by truth — 'Ali

Both powers strong $\neq$ virtue

Bottom-right also holds Genghis Khan, Hajjaj, Mu'awiyah — they too attracted and repelled strongly.
What matters is not that both powers exist, but who is drawn in and who is driven away.

Key Questions — Recap

- Q1. What is the universal law of attraction, and how did ancient people’s understanding differ from it?
- Q2. What are the four types of people, and which type does 'Ali belong to?
- Q3. Why is having strong attraction and repulsion not, by itself, proof of good character?

2026-08-19

The Power of Attraction in Imam Ali (A.S.)

└─Recap

└─Key Questions — Recap

Q: What is the universal law of attraction, and how did ancient people’s understanding differ from it?

A: Modern science holds that every atom in existence, from the smallest particle to the largest mass, is under a general law of attraction. Ancient people only recognised particular instances of it (e.g. magnet and iron, amber and straw) – they never grasped the universal principle behind them.

Q: What are the four types of people, and which type does 'Ali belong to?

A: (1) Attract nothing, repel nothing – like a slab of rock; (2) attract everyone, repel no one – usually hypocrisy, since real conviction always creates friction; (3) repel everyone, attract no one; (4) attract and repel – people of real conviction. 'Ali is Type 4, and his was the strongest example in history.

Q: Why is having strong attraction and repulsion not, by itself, proof of good character?

A: Strength of both powers only shows conviction, not virtue – what matters is who is drawn in and who is driven away. Even tyrants such as Genghis Khan, Hajjaj, and Mu’awiyah had both powers strongly.

Key Questions — Recap

Q1. What is the universal law of attraction, and how did ancient people's understanding differ from it?

Q2. What are the four types of people, and which type does 'Ali belong to?

Q3. Why is having strong attraction and repulsion not, by itself, proof of good character?

Love and Hate Are Not Opposites — They’re One Faith

“Is belief anything but love and hate?”
— Imam al-Sadiq (a.s.), Al-Kāfi, Bk. 1, Ch. 60, Hadith 5

“The strongest ring of belief to hold onto... is love for the sake of Allah, hate for the sake of Allah.”
— The Prophet (s), Al-Kāfi, Bk. 1, Ch. 60, Hadith 6

- Faith made beloved. Disbelief made hateful. (Qur’an 49:7)
- Not prayer alone. Not fasting alone. Not hajj alone.
- Imam al-Baqir (a.s.): without love/hate on the basis of religion, one has, in effect, no religion.

Example — The companions guess: They suggest prayer, zakat, fasting, hajj, jihad – all wrong; the Prophet corrects them: it is love and hate for the sake of Allah.

2026-08-19

The Power of Attraction in Imam Ali (A.S.)

└ Opening

└ Love and Hate Are Not Opposites — They’re One Faith

Love and Hate Are Not Opposites — They’re One Faith

“Is belief anything but love and hate?”
— Imam al-Sadiq (a.s.), Al-Kāfi, Bk. 1, Ch. 60, Hadith 5

“The strongest ring of belief to hold onto... is love for the sake of Allah, hate for the sake of Allah.”
— The Prophet (s), Al-Kāfi, Bk. 1, Ch. 60, Hadith 6

→ Faith made beloved. Disbelief made hateful. (Qur’an 49:7)
→ Not prayer alone. Not fasting alone. Not hajj alone.
→ Imam al-Baqir (a.s.): without love/hate on the basis of religion, one has, in effect, no religion.

Example — The companions guess: They suggest prayer, zakat, fasting, hajj, jihad – all wrong; the Prophet corrects them: it is love and hate for the sake of Allah.

Key Questions — Opening Hadiths

- Q1. According to the hadith, what did Imam al-Sadiq say belief actually consists of?
- Q2. What did the Prophet identify as the strongest handhold of belief?

2026-08-19

The Power of Attraction in Imam Ali (A.S.)

└ Opening

└ Key Questions — Opening Hadiths

Q: According to the hadith, what did Imam al-Sadiq say belief actually consists of?
A: He said belief is nothing but love and hate – then recited Qur’an 49:7, where faith is made beloved to the heart and disbelief is made hateful to it.

Q: What did the Prophet identify as the strongest handhold of belief?
A: Not prayer, fasting, or hajj alone, but loving for the sake of Allah, hating for the sake of Allah, and aligning one’s loyalty and rejection accordingly.

Key Questions — Opening Hadiths

Q1. According to the hadith, what did Imam al-Sadiq say belief actually consists of?
Q2. What did the Prophet identify as the strongest handhold of belief?

A Call That Never Stopped Ringing

“Ali’s power of attraction was [three-dimensional]... not limited to one or two centuries.”

— Mutahhari

- One-dimensional → fades.
- Two-dimensional → lasts.
- Three-dimensional → reaches the depth of the heart — the mark of a prophet’s call

Example — Maytham at-Tammar: 20 years after 'Ali's death, under Umayyad repression, he praised 'Ali from his own cross – until he was gagged, then killed.

Example — Ibn as-Sikkit: ~200 years later, he told Caliph al-Mutawakkil that 'Ali's slave Qanbar was dearer to him than the caliph and his sons – and lost his tongue for it.

“If 'Ali had had no divine colouring... he would have been forgotten. He became more alive.”

— Mutahhari

2026-08-19

The Power of Attraction in Imam Ali (A.S.)

└ Powerful Attractions

└ A Call That Never Stopped Ringing

Guess: how many years after 'Ali's death did someone die for praising him publicly? (Twenty.)

A Call That Never Stopped Ringing
	“Ali’s power of attraction was [three-dimensional]... not limited to one or two centuries.”
	— Mutahhari
	→ One-dimensional → fades.
	→ Two-dimensional → lasts.
	→ Three-dimensional → reaches the depth of the heart — the mark of a prophet’s call
	Example — Maytham at-Tammar: 20 years after 'Ali's death, under Umayyad repression, he praised 'Ali from his own cross – until he was gagged, then killed.
	Example — Ibn as-Sikkit: ~200 years later, he told Caliph al-Mutawakkil that 'Ali's slave Qanbar was dearer to him than the caliph and his sons – and lost his tongue for it.
	“If 'Ali had had no divine colouring... he would have been forgotten. He became more alive.”
— Mutahhari

1D, 2D and 3D: The Reach of Attraction

1D: People	2D: People + Time	3D: People + Time + Depth
Madhubala	Ibn Sina (Avicenna)	Jesus Christ
Meena Kumari	Al-Farabi	Buddha
Suraiya	Ibn Khaldun	Imam Hussain
Waheed Murad	Firdowsi	Prophet Muhammad (P.B.U.H.)
Nadir Shah	Akbar the Great	Imam Ali (A.S.)
Strong attraction	Enduring influence	Deep, enduring influence

Illustrative examples – not Mutahhari’s own classification.

Depth = the call takes command of a person’s inner/emotional life — not just attention (1D) or memory (2D).

People know about you (1D — fame); People keep studying/citing you across centuries (2D — enduring intellectual influence); People’s hearts are actually moved, ruled, transformed by you (3D — it reaches into who they are)

Where do Satan, Hitler, Rumi, Iqbal, Allama Majlisi, and Sheikh e Toosi fit?

2026-08-19

The Power of Attraction in Imam Ali (A.S.)

Powerful Attractions

1D, 2D and 3D: The Reach of Attraction

1D, 2D and 3D: The Reach of Attraction

1D: People	2D: People + Time	3D: People + Time + Depth
Madhubala	Ibn Sina (Avicenna)	Jesus Christ
Meena Kumari	Al-Farabi	Buddha
Suraiya	Ibn Khaldun	Imam Hussain
Waheed Murad	Firdowsi	Prophet Muhammad (P.B.U.H.)
Nadir Shah	Akbar the Great	Imam Ali (A.S.)
Strong attraction	Enduring influence	Deep, enduring influence

People → People + Time → People + Time + Depth

Illustrative examples – not Mutahhari’s own classification.

Depth = the call takes command of a person’s inner/emotional life — not just attention (1D) or memory (2D).

People know about you (1D — fame); People keep studying/citing you across centuries (2D — enduring intellectual influence); People’s hearts are actually moved, ruled, transformed by you (3D — it reaches into who they are)

Where do Satan, Hitler, Rumi, Iqbal, Allama Majlisi, and Sheikh e Toosi fit?

Can we use Intensity (Sacrifice), Polarity (Attraction + Repulsion) to add more flavor?

Key Questions — Powerful Attractions

- Q1. What are the three “dimensions” of a call to humanity, and which does 'Ali's attraction belong to?
- Q2. How long after 'Ali's death did Maytham at-Tammar speak from his own crucifixion in praise of him?
- Q3. What did Ibn as-Sikkit say to Caliph al-Mutawakkil, and what did it cost him?
- Q4. What does Mutahhari mean when he says 'Ali “became more alive” after his death?

2026-08-19

The Power of Attraction in Imam Ali (A.S.)

└ Powerful Attractions

└ Key Questions — Powerful Attractions

Q: What are the three “dimensions” of a call to humanity, and which does 'Ali's attraction belong to?

A: One-dimensional calls spread widely, then fade. Two-dimensional calls spread widely and last through time. Three-dimensional calls spread widely, last through centuries, and penetrate the depth of the human heart – unique to the chain of the prophets. 'Ali's attraction belongs to this third, three-dimensional category.

Q: How long after 'Ali's death did Maytham at-Tammar speak from his own crucifixion in praise of him?

A: Twenty years, under brutal Umayyad repression – he was eventually gagged and executed for it.

Q: What did Ibn as-Sikkit say to Caliph al-Mutawakkil, and what did it cost him?

A: Asked whether his own sons were dearer to him than the caliph's, he said even 'Ali's slave Qanbar was dearer to him than the caliph and his sons – and had his tongue cut out for the answer.

Q: What does Mutahhari mean when he says 'Ali “became more alive” after his death?

A: Unlike other historical champions of speech, knowledge, or the battlefield – who are eventually forgotten – 'Ali's memory and influence only grew stronger after his martyrdom, because his link to people was not a material one but a bond of the spirit.

Key Questions — Powerful Attractions
Q1. What are the three “dimensions” of a call to humanity, and which does 'Ali's attraction belong to?
Q2. How long after 'Ali's death did Maytham at-Tammar speak from his own crucifixion in praise of him?
Q3. What did Ibn as-Sikkit say to Caliph al-Mutawakkil, and what did it cost him?
Q4. What does Mutahhari mean when he says 'Ali “became more alive” after his death?

Love That Survives the Sword

“One of the greatest marks of distinction of Shi’ism. . . is that its foundation and its bedrock is love.”

— Mutahhari

→ “Ali and his party will be the triumphant ones.” — the Prophet (s)

→ “The believer will never be your enemy, the hypocrite will never love you.”

“Ali is the standard and criterion for assaying human nature and temperaments.”

— Mutahhari

Example — The man whose hand was cut off: Punished justly by 'Ali, he still extols him at length to the Kharijite Ibn al-Kawwa': "Why should I not extol him, now that his friendship is mixed with flesh and blood?"

2026-08-19

The Power of Attraction in Imam Ali (A.S.)
└ Shi’ism, the Religion of Love
└ Love That Survives the Sword

Guess before the reveal: did the man curse 'Ali, stay silent, or praise him?

Love That Survives the Sword

“One of the greatest marks of distinction of Shi’ism. . . is that its foundation and its bedrock is love.”

— Mutahhari

→ “Ali and his party will be the triumphant ones.” — the Prophet (s)

→ “The believer will never be your enemy, the hypocrite will never love you.”

“Ali is the standard and criterion for assaying human nature and temperaments.”

— Mutahhari

Example — The man whose hand was cut off: Punished justly by 'Ali, he still extols him at length to the Kharijite Ibn al-Kawwa': "Why should I not extol him, now that his friendship is mixed with flesh and blood?"

'Ali as Touchstone: What Reveals a Sound Nature

	Sound Nature	Diseased Nature
Struck by 'Ali's sword	Loyalty deepens(the man whose hand was cut off)	Turns to hostility
Given 'Ali's wealth/favour	Loyalty was never about gain	Still will never love him

The believer will never be your enemy; the hypocrite will never love you.

Both cells' outcomes are 'Ali's own words – not an external example, but his own test of human nature.

2026-08-19

The Power of Attraction in Imam Ali (A.S.)

Shi'ism, the Religion of Love

'Ali as Touchstone: What Reveals a Sound Nature

'Ali as Touchstone: What Reveals a Sound Nature

	Sound Nature	Diseased Nature
Struck by 'Ali's sword	Loyalty deepens(the man whose hand was cut off)	Turns to hostility
Gives 'Ali's wealth/favour	Loyalty was never about gain	Still will never love him

The believer will never be your enemy; the hypocrite will never love you.

Both cells' outcomes are 'Ali's own words – not an external example, but his own test of human nature

Key Questions — Shi'ism, the Religion of Love

- Q1. What Prophetic statement does Mutahhari use to root Shi'ism in the principle of love?
- Q2. According to 'Ali's own words, why will a hypocrite never love him no matter what he does for them?
- Q3. What does the story of the man whose hand was cut off demonstrate about real love for 'Ali?
- Q4. In what sense does Mutahhari describe 'Ali as a "standard" or "criterion" for human nature?

2026-08-19

The Power of Attraction in Imam Ali (A.S.)

└ Shi'ism, the Religion of Love

└ Key Questions — Shi'ism, the Religion of Love

- Q: What Prophetic statement does Mutahhari use to root Shi'ism in the principle of love?
A: "'Ali and his party (Shi'ah) will be the triumphant ones" – from this he argues Shi'ism's foundation and bedrock is love and devotion to 'Ali.
- Q: According to 'Ali's own words, why will a hypocrite never love him no matter what he does for them?
A: He said that striking a true believer with his sword would never turn that believer into his enemy, and pouring the world's wealth on a hypocrite's head would never make the hypocrite love him – because, as the Prophet decreed, the believer will never be 'Ali's enemy and the hypocrite will never love him.
- Q: What does the story of the man whose hand was cut off demonstrate about real love for 'Ali?
A: That such love is rooted in truth and justice, not personal comfort or benefit – he was justly punished, yet still praised 'Ali at length because he recognised the punishment as rightly established by God.
- Q: In what sense does Mutahhari describe 'Ali as a "standard" or "criterion" for human nature?
A: A sound, pure nature will not turn against 'Ali even under his sword, while a diseased nature will show him no attachment even after receiving great favours – because 'Ali is nothing but the embodiment of truth itself.

Key Questions — Shi'ism, the Religion of Love
Q1. What Prophetic statement does Mutahhari use to root Shi'ism in the principle of love?
Q2. According to 'Ali's own words, why will a hypocrite never love him no matter what he does for them?
Q3. What does the story of the man whose hand was cut off demonstrate about real love for 'Ali?
Q4. In what sense does Mutahhari describe 'Ali as a "standard" or "criterion" for human nature?

Love Is the Real Philosopher’s Stone

“Love, absolutely, is the “elixir”... which changes one nature into another.”

— Mutahhari

Copper into gold. Bitterness into sweetness.

“Love is the power of glory, it makes the coward courageous.”

— Mutahhari

Example — The hen: Timid and fleeing when alone – but with chicks to defend, she lowers her wings, attacks instead of fleeing.

“In the spirit, the effect of love is... development and thriving; in the body... melting and decomposition.”

— Mutahhari

Destroys the body. Perfects the spirit – removes envy, avarice, cowardice, laziness, self-admiration.

The Power of Attraction in Imam Ali (A.S.)

└─ The Elixir of Love

└─ Love Is the Real Philosopher’s Stone

2026-08-19

Love Is the Real Philosopher’s Stone

“Love, absolutely, is the “elixir”... which changes one nature into another.”

— Mutahhari

Copper into gold. Bitterness into sweetness.

“Love is the power of glory, it makes the coward courageous.”

— Mutahhari

Example — The hen: Timid and fleeing when alone – but with chicks to defend, she lowers her wings, attacks instead of fleeing.

“In the spirit, the effect of love is... development and thriving; in the body... melting and decomposition.”

— Mutahhari

Destroys the body. Perfects the spirit – removes envy, avarice, cowardice, laziness, self-admiration.

Share, in a sentence: a time love (for a person, cause, or craft) made you braver or more disciplined than usual?

Love’s Transformations — Mutahhari’s Own Examples

Before	→	After (via love)
Fear (hen, alone)	→	Courage (hen defending chicks)
Laziness (idle adolescent)	→	Diligence (new parent)
Selfishness (hoarding bird)	→	Generosity (feeds its chicks)
Impatience (spoiled young woman)	→	Endurance (as a mother)
Silence (nightingale, Majnun)	→	Inspiration (song, poetry)

Every row is Mutahhari’s own image – the pattern (not the examples) is what he’s arguing for.

2026-08-19

The Power of Attraction in Imam Ali (A.S.)

└─ The Elixir of Love

└─ Love’s Transformations — Mutahhari’s Own Examples

Love's Transformations — Mutahhari's Own Examples

Before	→	After (via love)
Fear (hen, alone)	→	Courage (hen defending chicks)
Laziness (idle adolescent)	→	Diligence (new parent)
Selfishness (hoarding bird)	→	Generosity (feeds its chicks)
Impatience (spoiled young woman)	→	Endurance (as a mother)
Silence (nightingale, Majnun)	→	Inspiration (song, poetry)

Weakness $\xrightarrow{\text{love}}$ Strength

Every row is Mutahhari's own image – the pattern (not the examples) is what he's arguing for.

Key Questions — The Elixir of Love

- Q1. Where does the term “elixir” for love come from, and what did the alchemists originally mean by it?
- Q2. Describe the hen example – what does it illustrate about love’s effect on courage?
- Q3. What is the difference between love’s effect on the body versus its effect on the spirit?
- Q4. Name at least three negative qualities the text says love purifies from the spirit.

2026-08-19

The Power of Attraction in Imam Ali (A.S.)

└─ The Elixir of Love

└─ Key Questions — The Elixir of Love

Q: Where does the term “elixir” for love come from, and what did the alchemists originally mean by it?

A: Persian poets borrowed it from the alchemists, who believed in a mythical substance – also called the philosopher’s stone – capable of transmuting one material into another. The poets said love is the real elixir: people are like mines, and love is what refines them.

Q: Describe the hen example – what does it illustrate about love’s effect on courage?

A: Alone, a hen is timid, fleeing even from a child. Once she has chicks to defend, love transforms her: wings lowered for defence, clucking louder, attacking rather than fleeing – courage born from love, not personality.

Q: What is the difference between love’s effect on the body versus its effect on the spirit?

A: In the body, love’s effects can be destructive – pallor, sleeplessness, disorder in the digestive and nervous systems. In the spirit, it is purifying – it develops and perfects, turning bitterness sweet and copper to gold.

Q: Name at least three negative qualities the text says love purifies from the spirit.

A: Envy, avarice, cowardice, laziness, conceitedness, self-admiration, grudges, and malevolence.

- Q1. Where does the term “elixir” for love come from, and what did the alchemists originally mean by it?
- Q2. Describe the hen example – what does it illustrate about love’s effect on courage?
- Q3. What is the difference between love’s effect on the body versus its effect on the spirit?
- Q4. Name at least three negative qualities the text says love purifies from the spirit.

Love Is What Breaks You Out of Yourself

“Self-love is a limitation and a defensive barrier; love completely breaks down this defensive barrier.”

— Mutahhari

Timid. Cut off. Alone. — until love breaks the wall.

“The struggle with self-love is the struggle with the limitations of the self.”

— Mutahhari

→ Not less self — a bigger self

→ “The personality must expand to take in every other human being.”

“The reform of man does not lie in reducing him, it lies in perfecting and adding to him.”

— Mutahhari

2026-08-19

The Power of Attraction in Imam Ali (A.S.)

└ Breaking Down the Barriers

└ Love Is What Breaks You Out of Yourself

Clarify live: this isn’t about hating yourself – it’s expansion, not erasure.

Love Is What Breaks You Out of Yourself

“Self-love is a limitation and a defensive barrier; love completely breaks down this defensive barrier.”

— Mutahhari

Timid. Cut off. Alone. — until love breaks the wall.

“The struggle with self-love is the struggle with the limitations of the self.”

— Mutahhari

→ Not less self — a bigger self

→ “The personality must expand to take in every other human being.”

“The reform of man does not lie in reducing him, it lies in perfecting and adding to him.”

— Mutahhari

The Narrow Self vs. the Expanded Self

	Narrow Self (self-love)	Expanded Self (via love)
Boundary of “me”	Just this body, this interest	Every other human being – ideally all creation
Typical traits	Timid, avaricious, quick-tempered, arrogant	Vitality, warmth, real connection
Self-regard	Not erased – but walled in	Not erased – but no longer walled in
Mutahhari’s words	“a limitation and a defensive barrier”	“perfecting and adding to him”

Reform = Expansion, not Reduction

2026-08-19

The Power of Attraction in Imam Ali (A.S.)

Breaking Down the Barriers

The Narrow Self vs. the Expanded Self

The Narrow Self vs. the Expanded Self
	Narrow Self (self-love)	Expanded Self (via love)
Boundary of “me”	Just this body, this interest	Every other human being – ideally all creation
Typical traits	Timid, avaricious, quick-tempered, arrogant	Vitality, warmth, real connection
Self-regard	Not erased – but walled in	Not erased – but no longer walled in
Mutahhari’s words	“a limitation and a defensive barrier”	“perfecting and adding to him”
Reform – Expansion, not Reduction

Key Questions — Breaking Down the Barriers

- Q1. What does Mutahhari mean by “self-love” as a “defensive barrier”?
- Q2. Does Mutahhari say the goal is to eliminate self-regard? What is the real goal instead?
- Q3. In his own words, what is the difference between “reducing” a person and “perfecting” a person?

2026-08-19

The Power of Attraction in Imam Ali (A.S.)

└ Breaking Down the Barriers

└ Key Questions — Breaking Down the Barriers

Q: What does Mutahhari mean by “self-love” as a “defensive barrier”?

A: As long as a person is locked inside self-love, they remain weak – timid, avaricious, quick-tempered, cut off from real vitality. Love breaks that barrier down, connecting the person to what is outside themselves.

Q: Does Mutahhari say the goal is to eliminate self-regard? What is the real goal instead?

A: No – eliminating legitimate self-regard (“amour-propre”) is not even coherent. The real goal is to expand the self so its boundary takes in other human beings, and ideally the whole of creation, rather than treating everything outside “me” as foreign.

Q: In his own words, what is the difference between “reducing” a person and “perfecting” a person?

A: Reform does not mean stripping away parts of a person’s existence – it lies in perfecting and adding to him, in growth and expansion, not in decrease or reduction.

Key Questions — Breaking Down the Barriers

Q1. What does Mutahhari mean by “self-love” as a “defensive barrier”?

Q2. Does Mutahhari say the goal is to eliminate self-regard? What is the real goal instead?

Q3. In his own words, what is the difference between “reducing” a person and “perfecting” a person?

The Well That Never Runs Dry

“He is like the laws of nature which remain unchanged by time — a well-spring which is never dry, but which rather increases day by day.”
— Mutahhari, on 'Ali

- Love and hate: not a contradiction — a completed faith
- 'Ali: love strong enough to outlive centuries

2026-08-19

The Power of Attraction in Imam Ali (A.S.)

└─ Closing

└─ The Well That Never Runs Dry

The Well That Never Runs Dry

“He is like the laws of nature which remain unchanged by time — a well-spring which is never dry, but which rather increases day by day.”

— Mutahhari, on 'Ali

→ Love and hate: not a contradiction — a completed faith

→ 'Ali: love strong enough to outlive centuries

- Q1. What makes 'Ali's power of attraction “three-dimensional” rather than one- or two-dimensional?
- Q2. How does the story of the punished man (fingers cut off) prove that love for 'Ali isn't self-interested?
- Q3. What is the difference between love's effect on the body and its effect on the spirit?
- Q4. What does it mean to “expand the self” rather than eliminate self-love?
- Q5. Why does Mutahhari say 'Ali “became more alive” after his martyrdom rather than being forgotten?

2026-08-19

The Power of Attraction in Imam Ali (A.S.)

└ Closing

└ Key Questions — Full Session Review

Q: What makes 'Ali's power of attraction “three-dimensional” rather than one- or two-dimensional?

A: It spread widely across society, has lasted for centuries rather than fading, and penetrates to the depth of the human heart – a combination Mutahhari says is unique to the chain of the prophets.

Q: How does the story of the punished man (fingers cut off) prove that love for 'Ali isn't self-interested?

A: He had every material reason to resent 'Ali, yet praised him at length – showing his devotion was rooted in recognising truth and justice, not in personal comfort or favour.

Q: What is the difference between love's effect on the body and its effect on the spirit?

A: In the body it can be destructive (pallor, sleeplessness, disorder); in the spirit it is purifying and perfecting, removing envy, cowardice, laziness and self-admiration.

Q: What does it mean to “expand the self” rather than eliminate self-love?

A: Legitimate self-regard is not erased – instead, the boundary of “self” is pushed outward to include other people, and ideally all of creation, redirecting one's drives and affections beyond the self.

Q: Why does Mutahhari say 'Ali “became more alive” after his martyrdom rather than being forgotten?

A: Because his connection to people was not material but spiritual – unlike other historical champions who fade from memory, 'Ali's influence and remembrance have only grown across the centuries.

- Q1. What makes 'Ali's power of attraction “three-dimensional” rather than one- or two-dimensional?
- Q2. How does the story of the punished man (fingers cut off) prove that love for 'Ali isn't self-interested?
- Q3. What is the difference between love's effect on the body and its effect on the spirit?
- Q4. What does it mean to “expand the self” rather than eliminate self-love?
- Q5. Why does Mutahhari say 'Ali “became more alive” after his martyrdom rather than being forgotten?

Notice the Pattern

“He never just tells us love is powerful. He shows us a hen becoming brave. He never just tells us ‘Ali’s love was unique. He shows us a man losing his tongue for it.”

— The method of the whole talk

Claim → Story → Claim

Thank you.

2026-08-19

The Power of Attraction in Imam Ali (A.S.)

Quick Reference

Notice the Pattern

Notice the Pattern

“He never just tells us love is powerful. He shows us a hen becoming brave. He never just tells us ‘Ali’s love was unique. He shows us a man losing his tongue for it.”

— The method of the whole talk

Claim → Story → Claim

Thank you.